Scott is a Clinical Professor and Executive Director, Executive Education at the University of Denver, Daniels College of Business. He teaches and consults in the areas of leadership, strategic planning/execution and global business. Scott has led the creation of numerous customized Executive Development Programs for organizations such as Newmont Mining, TIMET, and Kaiser Permanente. Over the last several years, he has led graduate courses focusing on global business and sustainable development in developing countries that included student consulting projects in Ghana, Peru, Tanzania and Rwanda.

Prior to joining Daniels, Scott spent over 27 years in industry and has a diverse professional background. He held senior executive roles with two large global companies (Emerson Electric, Monsanto) and a high tech start-up. He has functional experience in General Management, Marketing, Strategic Planning, Engineering and Sales Management. Scott lived in Singapore for 5 years in the 1980's and was involved in building distribution channels and infrastructure throughout the Asia-Pacific region. He also has extensive experience in Europe, the Middle East, Latin America and Africa.

Scott does Management Consulting and Executive Coaching with organizations of all sizes in a wide range of industries. Notable clients include IBM, Emerson, Comcast, HCA, United Way, Dell, McKesson, Nike and Newmont Mining. Additionally, he does a substantial amount of pro-bono consulting to non-profit organizations and is on the Board of Directors for the Denver Children's Home.

Scott has degrees in both Mechanical Engineering and Finance from the University of Colorado at Boulder. He also completed the Advanced Management Program at INSEAD in Fontainebleau, France, a comprehensive Integrated Marketing program at Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois and the Leaders of the 21st Century program at the Aspen Institute.
