Public Safety Leadership Development

Daniels College of Business
UNIVERSITY OF DENVER

OVERVIEW

The Daniels College of Business Public Safety Leadership Development program combines world-class faculty with personal assessments, leadership exercises, analytical assignments and challenging activities to provide a life-changing experience for public safety emerging leaders.

Over the course of this five-day program, participants gain insight into their personal leadership and communication style, their capabilities and their strengths and challenges. This insight helps them better understand their direct reports, and it provides the foundation for stronger and more effective teams, divisions and entire agencies.

Collaboratively built and fine-tuned by input from multiple agencies, more than 1,195 leaders have completed the program since its start in 2008.

The Public Safety Leadership Development program is reviewed and approved by the Colorado Peace Officer Standards and Training Office. There are funding options available for small and remote agencies.

“ Developing leaders in the Public Safety sector fulfills our mission at the University of Denver to be a great private institution dedicated to the public good. We are honored and grateful to have been a part of the Public Safety community in Colorado since 2008. ”

Kerry Plemmons
Faculty, Daniels Executive Education

PARTICIPANT BENEFITS

In this three-day workshop, participants will gain:

- ▶ Access to some of the world's best resources in graduate level business education and leadership development
- ▶ Increased visibility into areas of personal strength and insight into potential areas for growth
- ▶ Tools to develop and maintain stronger peer relationships and information to help with current challenges
- ▶ Education to improve team organizational performance
- ▶ Exposure to best practices in a variety of subject matter areas to improve business and operational skills, mental health and resiliency, and group dynamics

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Leaders in police, fire, emergency response and emergency communications with any number of direct reports are eligible to attend. The program is open to both sworn and non-sworn participants.

High potential leaders looking to improve their leadership capacity

Leaders looking to build a foundation for effective leadership

Leaders of all experience levels looking to network and learn from others in the Public Safety sphere

PROGRAM STRUCTURE

The Public Safety Leadership Development program compresses the very best content and resources into five days of learning.

Participants start the program at a three-day retreat held at The Nature Place, a mountain conference center located one hour west of Colorado Springs. Removed from their day to day lives, leaders are fully immersed in the program.

The Public Safety Leadership Development program is offered four times a year. Check our website for current availability.

The next session includes both individual classroom participation and group/team work. Assignments are strategically spaced to allow participants to apply what they have learned and to return to the program with stories of success and questions to ponder, further customizing the program as it progresses.

PROGRAM FEES

There is a program fee of $2,800 per participant to attend Public Safety Leadership Development. This fee includes:

- ▶ All program materials and instruction
- ▶ Single-occupancy lodging for two nights at The Nature Place retreat center
- ▶ Meals while at The Nature Place retreat center:
 - Lunch and dinner on day #1
 - Breakfast, lunch and dinner on day #2
 - Breakfast and lunch on day #3
- ▶ Lunch while at the University of Denver

Transportation to and from the program is at your own expense.

SCHOLARSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Grants may be available in conjunction with Colorado Peace Officers Standards and Training (Colorado POST) and other agencies. Priority is given to small and rural agencies and grants are limited. Please contact us for more information about grants and the application process.

PROGRAM ALUMNI

Since 2008, more than 1,195 leaders have graduated from the Public Safety Leadership Development Program at Daniels Executive Education. Participant feedback consistently reflects the positive impact of the program on individuals, divisions and entire agencies.

PARTICIPANT TESTIMONIALS

“This is the best leadership program for Public Safety Officers in Colorado—bar none. Every public safety leader should take this class.”
