CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT AND TEACHING INNOVATION

Programs and Initiatives

- Master of Science (and affiliated programs) in Data Mining: Sole responsibility for development and implementation of new cross-disciplinary Master of Science, M.B.A. concentration, and Professional Business Certificate data mining programs, including SAS industry certification. Personally created and designed several new courses in data mining and statistical modeling.
- Statistical Computing Technology: Led the integration of modern statistical software and knowledge discovery technology into the business curriculum.
- Laptops in the Classroom: Coordinated integration of laptop technology in the classroom for core statistics courses.

New and Innovative Courses Developed & Taught

- Data Mining I Concepts and basic techniques of data mining, the process of discovering useful knowledge by exploring and modeling relationships in very large data sets.
- Data Mining II A continuation of Data Mining II with a focus on predictive modeling.
- Statistical Computing The use of modern statistical software and programming with SAS for data analysis and modeling.
- Applied Statistical Modeling Categorical data analysis and generalized linear models with implementation of models using SAS and/or other statistical software.
- Financial Econometrics The application of statistical techniques to problems in finance.
- Chance Honors Seminar A university honors seminar on risk, probability, and uncertainty.
- Statistics and the Law Special topics offering on the interface of statistics and the law.
- The Theory of Gambling & Risk A special topics course.
- Probability Theory: The Mathematics of Gambling A course on the theory and applications of probability with an emphasis on casino gaming.
- The Science of Poker A special topics course covering the concepts, mathematics, theory, and history of poker.
- Risky Business: Introduction to Gambling & Commercial Gaming A unique travel course to Las Vegas, where students learn about the theory of gambling and the business of casino gaming. Publicity has included feature articles in the Denver Post and the Las Vegas Sun, and pieces in more than twenty campus newspapers nationwide.
- Casino Operations A special topics course on the many facets of casino operations.
- Economic and Social Impacts of Gaming in Colorado A special topics course combining on-campus lectures and off-campus research work in Colorado mountain towns.
- Gaming Law Developed and taught at the request of the D.U. Law School. Held in Las Vegas, with half-dozen world-class experts in gaming law, regulation, and operations addressing the class of 68 students.
- MBA Online Pre-course Wrote and developed the statistics pre-course used for several years as required course material for University of Denver MBA students.
