Josh Cashman is financial analyst and business owner with extensive experience in business valuation, financial analysis, investment management, and regulatory compliance. He has spent his career advising clients on matters involving finance, valuation, and M&A. Josh co-founded, operated, and sold two financial advisory firms (Intrinsic and Arcstone Partners), focused on valuation, due diligence, and consulting in the context of M&A. He started his career in the investment sector at the TIAA Trust Company, providing financial and estate planning services while completing the University of Denver's graduate evening law, finance, and MBA programs.

Over the course of his financial advisory career, Josh and his teams have completed thousands of complex debt and equity valuations across industries, emphasizing financial reporting for GAAP and IFRS compliance (in the context of M&A). In addition, he has completed expert testimony for transaction opinions in state, federal, and tax courts. Josh understands investment objectives for investors in public and private markets, including hedge funds, private equity funds, family offices, foundations, and venture capital funds.

Josh remains active in his local community by serving the boards of Social Venture Partners (SVP) - Denver, the Colorado Housing Assistance Corporation (CHAC), and the Parent Teacher Association of his children's elementary school, University Park Elementary. He also serves as adjunct professor at the University of Denver's, Daniels School of Business.

In addition to consulting business owners on valuation and M&A transactions, Josh supports family offices and foundations on impact investment through a related practice (iCubed).
